 Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.
 The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man 70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870 9,000,000 Bottles.

It stimulates the Pyraline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Pyraline causes Wind and Gas, and is the cause of the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiesces the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.
 It removes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.
 There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in its administration.

 my son of Rheumatism."

Mrs. Levi Young, of Manheim, relieved of Headache, after the doctors failed.

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.
Floors for Horse Stables.
 As long as we can remember, the question as to the best floors for horse stables has been discussed. We have tried clay and ordinary dirt, but they did not prove satisfactory. Holes would be dug almost daily by the forefeet, the urine would gather there, and unless great care was taken to fill them up and to smooth over the soil daily and wash the horses' feet, scratches would follow, and probably what is commonly called quarter-crack result, which is likely permanently to injure the animal.
 Sand and even sawdust have been recommended, but as they were clearly not desirable, we never tried either.
 We began with plank flooring, were dissuaded from using it, but have returned to it, and found it preferable to the others. We prefer hemlock, a double two-inch plank, with the front part kept well covered with straw at all times for the fore-feet, and at nights to be well-bedded with straight rye straw.
 We have found no disadvantages from the flooring; the feet have not suffered, so far as we can discover. Some object to the planks, first, because they are hard, and other, that they are come slippery, and the horse is liable to fall and strain himself in getting up; but, if we remember rightly, the plank roads were not objected to on account of their hardness or slipperiness; and as to slipping, if the flooring is a little inclined the water is carried back, whence a slight gutter, also inclining somewhat, either removes it from the stable on the outside, or it is allowed to pass under the floor through small holes in the gutter. But where these arrangements have not been made, a covering of sifted coal ashes over the floor will prevent the slipping. We have known floors in stalls to be made of boards or planks turned up on an edge, which is about as hard as anything can be; also, of flagstones, mortar, and even of as-phaltum, all which we should suppose might prove injurious to the animal, but we have never heard that they were.
 Hemlock planks, laid as we have mentioned, will prove, take all the circumstances into consideration, about as satisfactory as anything that can be substituted, and far more and not more expensive.—Germanstown Telegraph.

Household Hints.
 The best meat requires the simplest preparation.
 Never mix or place on the same dish, meats or vegetables that are unlike in flavor.
 To boil meat, when the meat is to be eaten, plunge it in boiling water, so as to sear the outside and retain the juices.
 To make soup, when the object is to extract all the juices from the meat, cut up in small pieces and put on in cold water.
 To roast meat properly, the air must have free access to it. This is the reason why meat roasted before an open fire is more palatable than that roasted (baked) in a close oven.
 Cheap utensils, of whatever kind, get out of order easily and usually cumber the kitchen, and annoy everybody who has anything to do with them. In all things relating to cookery the best is the cheapest.
 In building or choosing a house to live in, take care that the kitchen is roomy, and has plenty of sunlight. A dark kitchen is an abomination, and a cramped kitchen increases the labor of housekeeping one half. Let the kitchen be supplied with all modern conveniences, even if the parlor suffers in consequence.
 Neatness is the first virtue in the kitchen. The dishes of a careless cook all have a mixed flavor, as if cooked in one pot. The general rule is to cook long and slowly, with an even heat, so as to reach every part. Frying ought to be the last method for cooking meats. Broil, boil, roast, stew or bake in preference.
Dairy Notes.
 In the manufacture of butter the custom has become general of churning to wash the butter with cold brine of greater or less strength, not only to wash it once, but twice, if the first washing does not remove every trace of buttermilk.
 An exchange says that white-oak firkins soaked for two days in sour milk, when washed out and soaked one day in strong brine, and then rubbed thoroughly with salt make the best vessels for packing butter.
 The secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society, of England, advises to stop the churn when the butter is the size of a pin-head, draw out the curd milk and water, and repeat this water bath until no buttermilk remains. In this he differs from many dairymen, who churn until the butter reaches the size of wheat grains.
 Butter must be packed while perfectly fresh. Immediately after the final working it should be put away in the packages.
 Mr. N. A. Willard expresses the belief that "ropy" milk is due to weeds, bad water and bad treatment to cows, and Professor Engelhart once said he knew it was a weed. Dr. Leffmann has known it to stop when cows were changed from good to bad water, and as for weeds the disease appears at all times.
 A Canada correspondent recommends when butter will not "come" placing a small piece of fresh butter in the churn, which will cause the globules to gather.
 If that fails, the best way is to place the cream in a vessel and put that vessel in another containing hot water on the top of a stove. Bring the cream to a temperature of about eighty degrees, then churn.

Tricks of Little Elephants.
 The large elephants, after being made to stand on their hind legs and elevate their trunks, were allowed to go back to their stalls, while the keepers went to a small shed, partitioned off in one corner of the room, and brought out five small elephants, three of the African species, which had almost attained their full growth, and two small Asiatic elephants, called Venus and Adonis, aged respectively four and six years.
 These two are the most amusing of the whole collection and there seems to be no end to the tricks they go through.
 The moment they came out one of the keepers took up a large dinner bell and called "Don!" Upon this Adonis, the smaller of the two, slowly walked up and, catching the bell by his trunk, began to ring it. The keeper then turned away to give his attention to Venus, when Don began to tire of his work and the ringing became fainter and fainter and presently had almost entirely stopped, when the keeper slipped up and struck him across the nose with his stick. At this Don gave a howl and began to ring the bell furiously, growing louder and louder every minute, until at length the keeper returned and held out his hand to take the bell. But the little elephant was angry now and would not give it up, and kept ringing harder than ever, as though determined that since he had wanted him to ring it so much he would give him enough of it, nor did he cease until the keeper walked up and forcibly wrested it from him.

 Then the keeper took Venus down to a place where a double cable was stretched across the stable, about a foot from the ground. She was commanded to get on there and walk across, which she did, moving very slowly and not forming the feet without a single slip.
 Next Don was called up and commanded to go through the same performance.
 This little elephant got upon the rope and began to walk, when the keeper turned his back away. Suddenly, when Don had got about one-third of the distance, he looked around and seeing the keeper not looking he quickly slipped his hind feet off the rope on to the ground and thus propelled himself quickly to the end and hurriedly disappeared into his shed. This sly trick created great merriment among the on-lookers. It was found, however, that this trick had been taught him by the keeper himself, who is preparing Don for a clown's part, whose business is to burlesque things. The keeper had purposely turned his back away, as that is the signal for Don to go through his trick of deception. Mr. Craven, the trainer, says the elephant has more intellect than any other living animal, and believes they can be taught to appear on the stage, taking parts in a drama the same as individuals.—Philadelphia Times.

The Common Law.
 What is called the "common law," in the United States, with some modification, the same as the "common law of England." The phrase means, in fact, ancient custom, as declared by the courts. Suits are continually being brought, in which arises some question of law or equity that has never before arisen. There is no act or statute law that applies to it. The court then decides the matter according to the general principles of justice.
 The judge, in announcing his decision, lays down a rule that, under certain circumstances, a certain result follows.
 This decision, not only becomes a guide and rule for all inferior courts, and usually for those of equal dignity. The whole body of such decisions forms the common law of England.
 When a lawyer is preparing to argue a case, he searches through the volumes of reports to find decisions upon similar cases. Of course, there are rarely two suits where the facts are entirely alike, and consequently the lawyer on one side undertakes to prove that the decisions cited do, and the opposing lawyer that they do not, apply to the case on trial.
 The principle usually employed to show that the common-law principle is ancient is "whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary"—that is to say, nobody can prove that at any former time the law or custom was different.
 The common law governs only when there is no special act. A statute supersedes or reverses common law.
 Indeed, the statute is usually passed for that purpose; and when it is repealed the common law comes into force again.
 Our British came to this country from England, and naturally brought English laws and customs with them. When they separated from the mother country, they retained the old laws, and built the new ones upon them. The New York constitution of 1777 adopted as law within that State the common law of England, and the statutes also as they were applicable to the new State.
 As our national customs have departed further and further from those of Great Britain, the common law of the two countries has become different.
 Yet, even now, there are no very wide differences, and decisions by English judges are often cited in our courts as establishing the law.
 Countries which do not supplement their legislation with what we call common law, are governed by a "code." This is a collection of laws and principles, to which all cases, as they arise, are referred. France is governed by the Code Napoleon, which also forms the basis of legislation in a general way in some other European countries.
 Our State of Louisiana, which came to us by purchase, has always been governed for the most part by a code, which was modified from the Code Napoleon. But the English common law is also in force even in that State.
 The result of living under the common law is generally satisfactory, because, as a rule, the judges of both England and America have been men of wisdom and justice. But they have not all been of equal intelligence and integrity, and their work is, of course, not all perfect.—Chicago Ledger.

The Effect of Coffee.
 Dr. Richardson, the eminent English scientist, refers to a statement that coffee is an unhealthy beverage, that it keeps up constant irritation of the stomach, and brings on depression of spirits, etc. There was a great deal of truth in that statement, says the doctor, as coffee cannot be taken in excess without producing dyspepsia and irritation, but moderately used it is an invigorating, healthful and wholesome drink, bringing a man's best energies into play.
 The quantity taken, however, must not be large, and should be good.
 Dr. Boeck, of Leipzig, another celebrated scientist, says: "The nervousness and restlessness of our times are chiefly attributable to tea and coffee; the digestive organs of confirmed coffee drinkers are in a state of chronic derangement, which reacts on the brain, producing fretful and melancholy moods.
 Fine ladies addicted to strong coffee have a characteristic temper, which I might describe as a mania for acting the persecuted saint. Cocoa and chocolate is neutral in its psychic effects, and is really the most harmless of our fashionable drinks." Walking boots are all cut high and made of French kid foxings, with fine satins and uppers, constitute the choice walking boot of the season.
 Pleasant brown is one of the most fashionable spring colors.

A Pitiable Tale.
 The following verdict was recently returned by a coroner's jury in Ken-nmare, Ireland: "We find that the deceased, Denis Sullivan, died suddenly in the market house, Kennmare, from natural causes; and we further find, after the most painstaking investigation, that his death resulted from destitution and insufficiency of food." The Kerry Sentinel says: "The immediate circumstances attending this poor man's death reveal a truly sad story. All who know the prostrate condition of our people this trying year of famine know that they suffer from a scarcity of fuel as well as from a scarcity of food. The year was unvisited, in a great measure, to the saving of turf, and, even in more propitious years the price charged by landlords for turbarry is often so high that poor people who have not constant employment cannot manage to purchase the bog. In this pressing crisis the Marquis of Lansdowne, who owns vast estates around Ken-nmare, gave not a stick or a chip to afford firing to the poor, and it appears, actually keeps a sort of sylvan Cerebus in the shape of a wood bailiff to preserve the rotten branches of trees and bits of thorn from being taken home to the fireless hearths of the poor. For entering upon some part of the Marquis of Lansdowne's property, and picking bits of whitethorn for firing, the wife of this poor man was brought to court and fined. The inhumanity of the act is best demonstrated from the fact that the bailiff who prosecuted swore the value of the sticks to be but one penny. For this monstrous crime, this terrible injustice to the most noble Marquis of Lansdowne, the poor woman was fined in, between costs and compensation, the sum of 3s.
 1d. The fine not being paid she was to have been arrested and cast into jail, when the poor man rose up from that bed where he lingered and went in search of an official of the Lansdowne office who owed him the amount; and it was while engaged on this melancholy mission that death overtook him.

Chicago has a policeman who can speak the English, German, French, Polish and Welsh languages. He can club a man in five different languages in less time than it takes an ordinary policeman to make a common arrest in hog Latin.—Rome Sentinel.

It is stated that France now calls into action the enormous amount of 1,100,000 horse power, representing the effort of no less than 14,000,000 men—that is, in fact, a population actually greater than that of the workmen of the whole country.

Consumption Cured.
 An old physician, writes from a patient, having played up his health by the use of the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the permanent cure of Consumption, Cough, Catarrh of the Throat, and all the Lung Affections, in a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and a "Vitalizer" after having felt the wonderful effects of the medicine, but he felt it his duty to make it known to his fellow men. As he says by the use of a few drops of this medicine, he felt free of charge to a wide circle of his patients, French, of English, with full directions for preparing and using the same. W. W. BISHOP, 137
